

COLLEGE & UNIVERSITY

TRUCK DRIVING INSTRUCTION • CLIENT: INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE

Truck driver, trucker, truckie, or just plain driver, no matter what you call it... trucking is the backbone of American commerce. Finished goods and raw materials are moved all across America 24 hours a day, 365 days a year by truckers, and trucking is a vital part of the stability of our economy. Going to direct destinations where rail cannot, the trucking industry provides door-to-door service from manufacturers to distribution centers that we rely on for every single product produced in or imported to America.

From flat bed to tanker, dump to container, the modern trucker has a lot of choices, and each truck's driver must have a specific skill set in order to master their career. In order to be a Class A driver, one must be licensed and certified to handle a combination of vehicles with a GVWR (gross vehicle weight rating) of 26,001 or more pounds provided the GVWR of the vehicle or vehicles being towed is greater than 10,000 pounds.

At International College (IC) we provide the technical and hands-on know how to launch your successful open-road career. Our quality instructors will provide knowledge in all areas of commercial driver's class certification (CDL) such as shifting, driving, backing, cargo handling, mapping, and trip planning. IC integrates classroom time with ample truck driving experience, as nothing can replace those hours of actually being behind the wheel of the truck—driving. In addition, our students will get safe driving techniques, an overview of vehicle inspections, and regulations knowledge—all on their way to earning a Class A license and their ticket to an exciting and vital career.